

Term Project Instructions – Module 2

Overview:

The student will create a project that will span all five modules of this course. The project will examine one theological topic of the student's choosing from a number of different perspectives, following a general theological method learned in this course. This project will be composed of five separate assignments with different due dates and differing weight in the final project grade. Please see the course schedule and/or syllabus for the particular due dates and course evaluation percentages.

Part 2 – Asking a Theological Question:

For the second activity, you will refine the general category of topic from the previous assignment into a specific theological question. Ideally, your question should meet the following criteria:

- Is it a small enough scope to do well in the limited time period of this project?
- Is it a theological question that is directly addressed in the Bible, as opposed to a historical or application question which is one or more steps removed from the Bible?
- Is the question clear and precise enough to give clear direction to your research and to set limits so that your research stays on track?

Briefly write out the specific question which you will research, and submit this document to a mentor or your group for comment and suggestions. This can be a single question. You may also add explanatory sentences up to a single paragraph. The purpose is to determine and clearly communicate the aim and scope of your theological investigation.
